

Abstract

To provide a metal-coated substrate capable of significantly improving an adhesion strength and stability between metal and a plastic film. By laminating a thermoplastic film layer 2 on a base body plastic film layer 3 to obtain a laminated plastic film, and a metal layer 1 is formed on the thermoplastic film layer 2, while controlling a temperature of the laminated plastic film.